The sport at Morris Park yesterday was suffidiently interesting to entertain the 5,500 per-gions present from the moment the sport began until the last winner had passed the post. The Becond All-aged Serial Handleap, at one mila, was won by the Oneck Stable's game little fouryear-old Sir Welter, who, drawing the rail at the start, never relinquished it, galloping all of his epponents into the ground, and winning in hand by two lengths in the very fast time of 1:30%. Glenmoyne, winner of the First Serial, was second, and Banquet third. The Essex Stakes, for two-year-olds, was carried off by William Wallace's The Commoner, the favorite in the betting.

When Sir Walter ran on Saturday in the Manhattan Handicap, the entire Oneck contin-gent were down with probably as much money as they have bet on any race this year. Sam Doggett got the little four-year-old into several gockets, had bad luck in trying to get through, and so was besten by Sir Excess in a punishing finish. In yesterday's contest the fickle public threw Sir Walter out of their reckoning and made Roche the favorite at 7 to 5. Glenmoyne was next in favor at 214 to 1, and Banquet was accorded some support at 314 to 1. This enabled the stanchest of Sir Walter's admirers to abled the stanchest of Sir Waiter's admirers to get as good as 8 to 1 against their choice, for they would not hear that his form in the Manhattan Handicap was true; in fact they were ready to a man to admit, much as they like Doggett, that the jockey had ridden the son of Midlothian with poor judgment. There was no dilly-dallying at the post, Mr. Rowe dropping the flag at almost the first break. Doggett let Sir Waiter march up the hill with Prig as his hearest attendant. Going over the ridge nearest attendant. Going over the ridge Bir Walter was first by half a length, Prig second, a length before Glenmoyne. Banquet and Roohe were perhaps two lengths further 'away. Glenmoyne looked decidedly dangerous a quarter of a mile from home, but the gelding gave it up directly he was tasked to go to the front, and Sir Walter won in very hollow fash-ion. Griffin was at Roche nearly all the way, but he could not overhaul any of those in the first divison, Glenmoyne finishing a comfortable second, with Banquet third. After the race the stewards had Griffin before them in regard to Roche's poor showing. William Donohue, who owns Roche, had all of his friends betting on stewards had Griffin before them in regard to Roche's poor showing. William Donohue, who ewns Roche, had all of his friends betting on the colt, and thought him good enough to win. He had worked him a mile and a furiong in 1:59, finishing on the top of the hill. Griffin reported Roche as having a lot of speed in his preliminary gallop, but none in the actual contest. After the races Owner Donohue and the stewards talked the race over.

The Essex Stakes was a poor race from a time standpoint, the six furiongs being run in a second slower than it took Kennel to negotiate the same distance in the previous contest. Dolabra, the Lorillard representative, and The Commonwer, now owned by William Wallace of Kentucky, were equal favorites at the opening at 25 to 1, but there was a ton of money on tap to play on The Commoner, whose first race it was since Byron McClelland sold him to Wallace for $5,000, and at the close of the betting it was 8 to 5 The Commoner and 25 to 1 Dolabra. Counter Tenor. at 35 to 1, was the most in demand of the others. Shadow Dance coit and Olly Gammon were held at 6 and 7 to 1 respectively. It was 500 to 1 against either Golden Gate or Phrabus. The Commoner took the lead at the start and was never headed during the entire journey, although Clayton was rather uneasy in the last hundred yards, when Counter Tenor, in response to a most vigorous drubbing on the part of Taral, planded a final effort to get to the front. The polored lad had only to shake The Commoner up a triffe, and the victory was his by a good, open jengths. Counter Tenor beat Phæbus a couple of lengths for second money. Dolabra, under the whip from flag fall to finish, was a poor fourth at the end. The winer is a very speedy boit, especially with a light impost on his back. The knowing once made Silvie a warm favorite for the opening dash at six furlongs, taking even money against Mr. Forbes's imported filly. Griffin had the mount, riding at five pounds over weight, and the daughter of Silver looked extensibly well on her way to could not get any part of the money.

Something unlooked for happened in the second race, a selling affair for two-year-olds at six furlongs, for which P. J. Dwyer's Kennel was an even money favorite. When Kennel was an even money favorite with the gentle was an even been Kelly, who formerly raced quite extensively, and who is one of the oldest bookmakers in the business, bid the colt up to $3,000, Mr. Dwyer keeping the son of Bishop by bidding an extra $5. There has never been any love lost between the Dwyer brothers and Kelly, but it was supposed that the latter was out of the business with the exception of managing the botting rings at Morris Park and Sheepshead Bay. All of the heavy bettors were down on Kennel, as his form of late has been most consistent. Tinge was also played heavily, particularly for the place, so that the ring lost heavily on the race. The May, Day filly was a fair third. St. Vincent bumped into kennel at the bend, but the favorite was good enough to come on and win.

Bieldemers, at the most prohibitive odds, was the easy winner of the dash for three-year-old fillies at one mile. Simms kept her in check until well into the stretch, industing Gleesome with the lead, but once the Presidens fill got her head she romped away from her antagonist. Baroness secured the place by a neck, thanks to Clayton's fine riding.

Leonawell was an odds-on favorite for the last race of the day, a dash for three-year-olds and upward at eix furlongs. Old Dominion, ridden by Clayton, had the speed of the party, and beast fourth, only a head away.

Bernard Murray, who has periodically endeavored to purchase a race horse out of selling price. James Harrison, who trains for Mr. McDonaki, paid the extra $5 and kept the gelding. Hall Murray gone direct to the owner he could have LUCKY JOCKBY GRIFFIN. The Light Weight Will Receive $16,100 for His Services Next Year.

Jockey Henry Griffin, who is riding this season for Mesars. Gideon & Daly and the Blemton Sta-bles, has been in great demand for next year. THE SUN announced some days mgo that Messrs. Beimont, Lorillard, and Gideon & Daly were after the boy, who is not more than 17 years of age. Sealed bids were made to James Shields, who Sealed bids were made to James Shields, who has Griffin apprenticed, and upon their being opened it was found that that of Messrs. Gideon & Daly was higher than the others. It was an offer of $18,100 for the services of this stripling, who a few years ago was taken out of the Roman Catholic Protectory at West Chester by Horseman Shields. This is by far the highest salary ever paid to any rider in America and double that ever paid to any rider in America and double that ever paid to any rider in America and double that ever paid to any ride pounds. Of this sum James Shields will receive one-half. With the privilege of taking outside mounts Griffin should earn next year fully $25,000. He is a shrewd, smart lad, and is educating his sisters in a convent. He knows where every dollar he earns is placed, and should be a very rich man before he is 25 years of age.

Morris Park's Newest Attraction. The New York Jockey Club, encouraged by the success of its three-cornered race on Satur-day last, is in the field with a new attraction.

They offer a purse of $2,500 for all ages at one mile and a quarter, weight for age, the race to be decided on Monday next, Oct. 15, when the racing season in this State will close for 1894. The second horse will receive $500, and the third horse will save his stake. It is expected that Henry of Navarre, Hanquet, Clifford, Sir Walter, Dorian, Rubicon, and other fiyers will be nominated. Entries for this event will close on Thursday.

FAGIN BEATS CON LUCEY

For the Owners' Handlesp at Maspeth-Jockey McKnight is Thrown. At Maspeth yesterday the Owners' Handleap was won by Fagin, who beat Con Lucey by a head. The latter lost the race by running wide in the stretch. In the fifth race, while making the first turn, Tom Brown boited and ran into the fence. McKnight, his rider, tried to get his feet out of the stirrups to jump, but tried to get his feet out of the stirrups to jump, but fatted. He was picked up and carried to the lookeys' rooms. He was badly shaken up. Summaries:

ockey Carr Is Badly Injured at Harten

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Harlem opened its gates to-day for the sixth week of its summer and fall meeting. The racing was excellent, but an accident in the last race took all the enthusiasm out of the spectators. Jockey Felix, Carr. who is a great favorite here, had the mount on Buckknight. At the half-mile pole the horse stumbled and fell. Carr's right leg was fractured, and it is feared that he has been injured internally.

On the contrary, Albin managed to press his On the contrary, Albin managed to press his adversary repeatedly: he eventually won two pawns and might have secured a third.

However, he selected a variation, in course of which he gave up the exchange, a procedure which did not at all make matters easy for him. He had to work very hard subsequently, and after thirty-seven moves had been recorded the issue was still problematical. Albin continued playing to win, when he ought to have been satisfied with a draw. He made a few hasty moves, lost a piece, and after sixty-six moves the game. The score now stands: Showaiter, 3; Albin, 2.

Last Big Bace of the Wheel Cracks for Sellers ... WALTUAM Mass., Oct. 8.-Two sensational races oc curred at the last big race meeting of the season. OPENING OF THE BOWLING SEASON. The American National Tournament Begins Its Fourth Annual Series.

The bowling season in this city was formally opened last night at the Germania Assembly Rodm's alleys. There is no doubt that the game is just as popular as in previous years, for, notwithstanding that the weather is somewhat warm for indoor sport, the cranks were on hand in large numbers, and there was pust as much excitement and shouting as could possibly be expected. The American national tournament, recognised as one of the leading organizations of its kind in this vicinity, began its fourth annual competition, and it is the ambition of the twenty-one clubs which comprise the tournament to secure the championship. HIS TEAM'S LAST GAME IN AMER. ICA RESULTS IN A VICTORY.

The Fifteen of All Massachusetts Are Be feated at Lowell by an Inning and Nineteen Runs - Hanghton of the Boston A. A. Makes the Top Score for the Tankees-

A Skilful Defence by Young Clarks. Lowers, Oct. 8.-The American tour of Lord Hawke's team was brought to a close to-day, when they easily defeated the Massachusetts fifteen and had over an inning to spare. They actually won as they pleased, and it was probable that the margin would have been even larger had G. W. Hillyard, who bowled in such phenomenal form on Eaturday, been allowed a chance with the bail. The batting of the Massa-chusetts men was very weak, and, with the ex-ception of the Fairborn brothers, P. A. Clarke, and L. C. Haughton, none of the men batted with any confidence.

The visitors appeared to have quite a variety of bowling, and the home players could not un-derstand A. J. L. Hill's fast round arm after his lobe. W. F. Whitwell also obtained considerable success with the ball and secured five wickets for twenty runs, while L. C. V. Bathurst sent down no less than twelve maidens in twenty-two overs. The attendance at the game was small, notwithstanding the fact the weather was the finest the Englishmen have had on the trip, with the exception of the first game at Philadelphia.

Capt. Hart decided to try the same batsmen who opened on Saturday to start the run get-ting in Massachusetts' second inning, and at 11:30 o'clock J. H. Comber and J. Smith faced the bowling of W. F. Whitwell and L. C. V. Bathurst. The first wicket was not long in going down. With the total at four Smith was bowled by Whitwell. P. H. Clarke of Harvard was the next comer, and before he was long at the wickets he obtained a fine drive off Bathuret for three, thus breaking the left-handed trun-dler's series of maidens, five of which he sent down in succession. With the total at fourteen, Comber was cleaned bowled by Bathurst, while George Wright, who followed, was splendidly caught in the slips by Bardswell without scoring. F. Fairburn then assumed the defensive, and he got four runs on an overthrow, while Clarke got into doubles by a good leg stroke for

The run getting then went steadily on, the Harvard man doing most of the work, while Fairburn played with great patience. With the total at thirty-five, the first change in the bowl-Fairburn played with great patience. With the total at thirty-five, the first change in the bowling was made, G. R. Bardswell getting the ball in place of Bathurst. The following over proved fatal to Clarke, who was clean bowled by Whitwell for a score of nineteen. The excellent contribution of the young university man stamps him as a coming batsman, and at some future time he will probably shine as a leading light of the Germantown Cricket Club of Philadelphia, of which organization his brother, E. W. Clarke, Jr., is the treasurer. Lott Mansfield was unfortunate in getting caught in the slips by the ever-vigilant Bardswell before he had a chance to score, while H. Shepherdson got his leg in front of a straight ball from Whitwell without any improvement in the total.

Six wickets had fallen for thirty-eight runs, when F. Fairburn, who was still playing steadily and well, was joined by his brother Robert. The new comer at once started in to score, and before long he was in double figures. The pair then settled down to good free cricket, and lifty and sixty went up without a separation being effected, Hill's lobs were tired, but as the brothers took kindiy to them one over was all he had, and at seventy Bathurst again took up the trundling. R. Fairburn thought a drive over the fence was the properthing at this stage of the game, and he went out to hit the lefthander. He missed the ball, however, and before he got back C. Wright had the balls off. He played a fine inning for twenty, the last score of the side.

so fore he got back C. Wright had the balls off. He played a fine inning for twenty, the last score of the side.

Shorter time than usual was taken for lifnenceon. Fairburn was joined at the wicket by J. Thorpe. Bathurst and Hill did the bowling, the latter changing his delivery completely. Instead of lobs he bowled fast round arm and had four men in the slips. This delivery proved more dangerous than the underhand, and without the addition of a run Fairburn retired with twelve opposite to his name. This let in Tom Pettit, the court tennis champion and hard-hitting batsman, who generally scores at a terrific rate. He did get in one big hit before he was disposed of, but he had only five to his credit when Hill disarranged his stungs.

R. Cracknell, who followed Pettit, is another big hitter, but after he had driven Hill to the boundary for three another brilliant catch by Bardswell-in the slips sent him back, and the tenth wicket was down for eighty-one runs. Chambers was the next batsman, but Thorpe soon deserted him after playing patiently for three, which appeared to be a favorite score of the tuning. L. Haughton joined Chambers. The Boston A. A. men soon gave indications of making a stand. After the pair had put on ten runs Chambers skied one to Bathurst at mid off. M. K. Gordon gave way to a coatch at the wicket by Wright off Hill, and thirteen men were out for ninety-six runs. J. J. Hart was the last man, and before he was run out by bad judgment the total had been advanced to 104. The Englishmen thus won by an inning and nineteen runs.

Lord Hawke did not field during the second inning, but when the Englishmen went in for a batting exhibition he showed himself in the roll of umpire. The score:

How Germs Attack People by the Million, and the Only Safe Way to Resist Their

If you have ever seen a swarm of bees you will realize how many insects it is possible to get within a small space. When you stop to think, though, that there are a million insects in an atom of air as large as the head of a pin, you will be able to understand what germs are.

These germs, which cause nearly all diseases,
Increase with lightning rapidity, and are taken in with every breath we draw. They are specially dangerous at this time of the year, as they feed upon the body instantly if they are not driven away.

For hundreds of years physicians have tried to learn the best means of driving away the germs of disease, but it has become generally settled now that where a pure medicinal whis-key is used regularly there is little chance for key is used regularly there is little chance for any germ to live. Germs may get into the body; they may come in the air we breathe and the water we drink, but they cannot live and thrive and produce disease if they are killed off constantly and promptly by the use of pure whiskey. It should be remembered in this connection that there is but one really pure medicinal whiskey in America, and this is Duffy's Pure Mala. This fact is universally acknowledged, and the wide popularity which it possesses proves its superior power. All reputable druggists and grocers sell it, and you cannot do better than to follow the sensible suggestion above given.—Ade.

FOOTBALL. How the Training Table at Yale is Made

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 8.-The training table for New Haven, Oct. 8.—The training table for the Yale football eleven has been formed, and for the present will consist of the following candidates:—Capt. F. A. Hinkey, Butterworth, John Greenway, Adea, Thorna, Stillman, McCrea, Hickok, Morria, Fincke, Bass, Louis Hinkey, Dewitt, Brown and Beard.

Capt. Hinkey has made an important change in the team by putting himself at quarter back in order to infuse more vigor into the practice, and to have a better position from which to coach the players. It is not thought that he will permanently remain in that position.

Barnard School, 12; Brooklyn High School, C. The Barnard School and Brooklyn High School feed-ball teams met in Mount Morris Park yesterday after-noon, and after an exciting game the Barnard team won by a score of 18 to 0. The teams lined up as fol-lows:
